

Do you know your lodgment date?

You need to, or it will cost you.

EVERY individual and business entity is required to lodge a tax return... EVERY year. If you are an individual, have a Self Managed Super Fund (SMSF), a Trust, a Company or a Partnership, it is vital that you know YOUR lodgment date.

Lodgment dates vary depending on what type of return you are lodging, what type of entity you are lodging under and whether you have lodged late in the previous year.

If you don't provide your tax material to Indigo Financial with enough time to process it prior to your lodgment date you run the risk of being charged a late lodgment penalty (and possibly additional interest charges) from the Australian Tax Office (ATO).

The ATO have been very clear with the Australian public and financial industry (eg Accounting firms) that they are on the hunt for billions of dollars from tax payers who are either late or avoiding their tax obligations.

The ATO has also made it virtually impossible to get a remittance for being late on your lodgments, and those that do have to spend significant time and effort just to put the application in, with no guarantee of success.

Indigo Financial will begin charging for each remittance application to the ATO from 1 September, 2024.

What used to be a bee sting (less than $100) has turned into a shark bite ($750+) for late lodgments, which is a significant amount of money to waste just for not being proactive and organised.
